

Musical Rhythms in Studying

Does listening to different types of music/rhythms affect how well a student studies?

Does the environment in which we listen to music affect how we receive the music?

- 1. Listening to music helps you study better when the music plays in the background.
- 2. It is not better to study with the studying.
- 3. It is generally better to study with no studying.
- 4. Listening to music helps you study better.
- 5. It is generally better to study with no studying. It is generally better to study.

FINDINGS

Conclusion

It says it had a study score of 100% in the experiment.

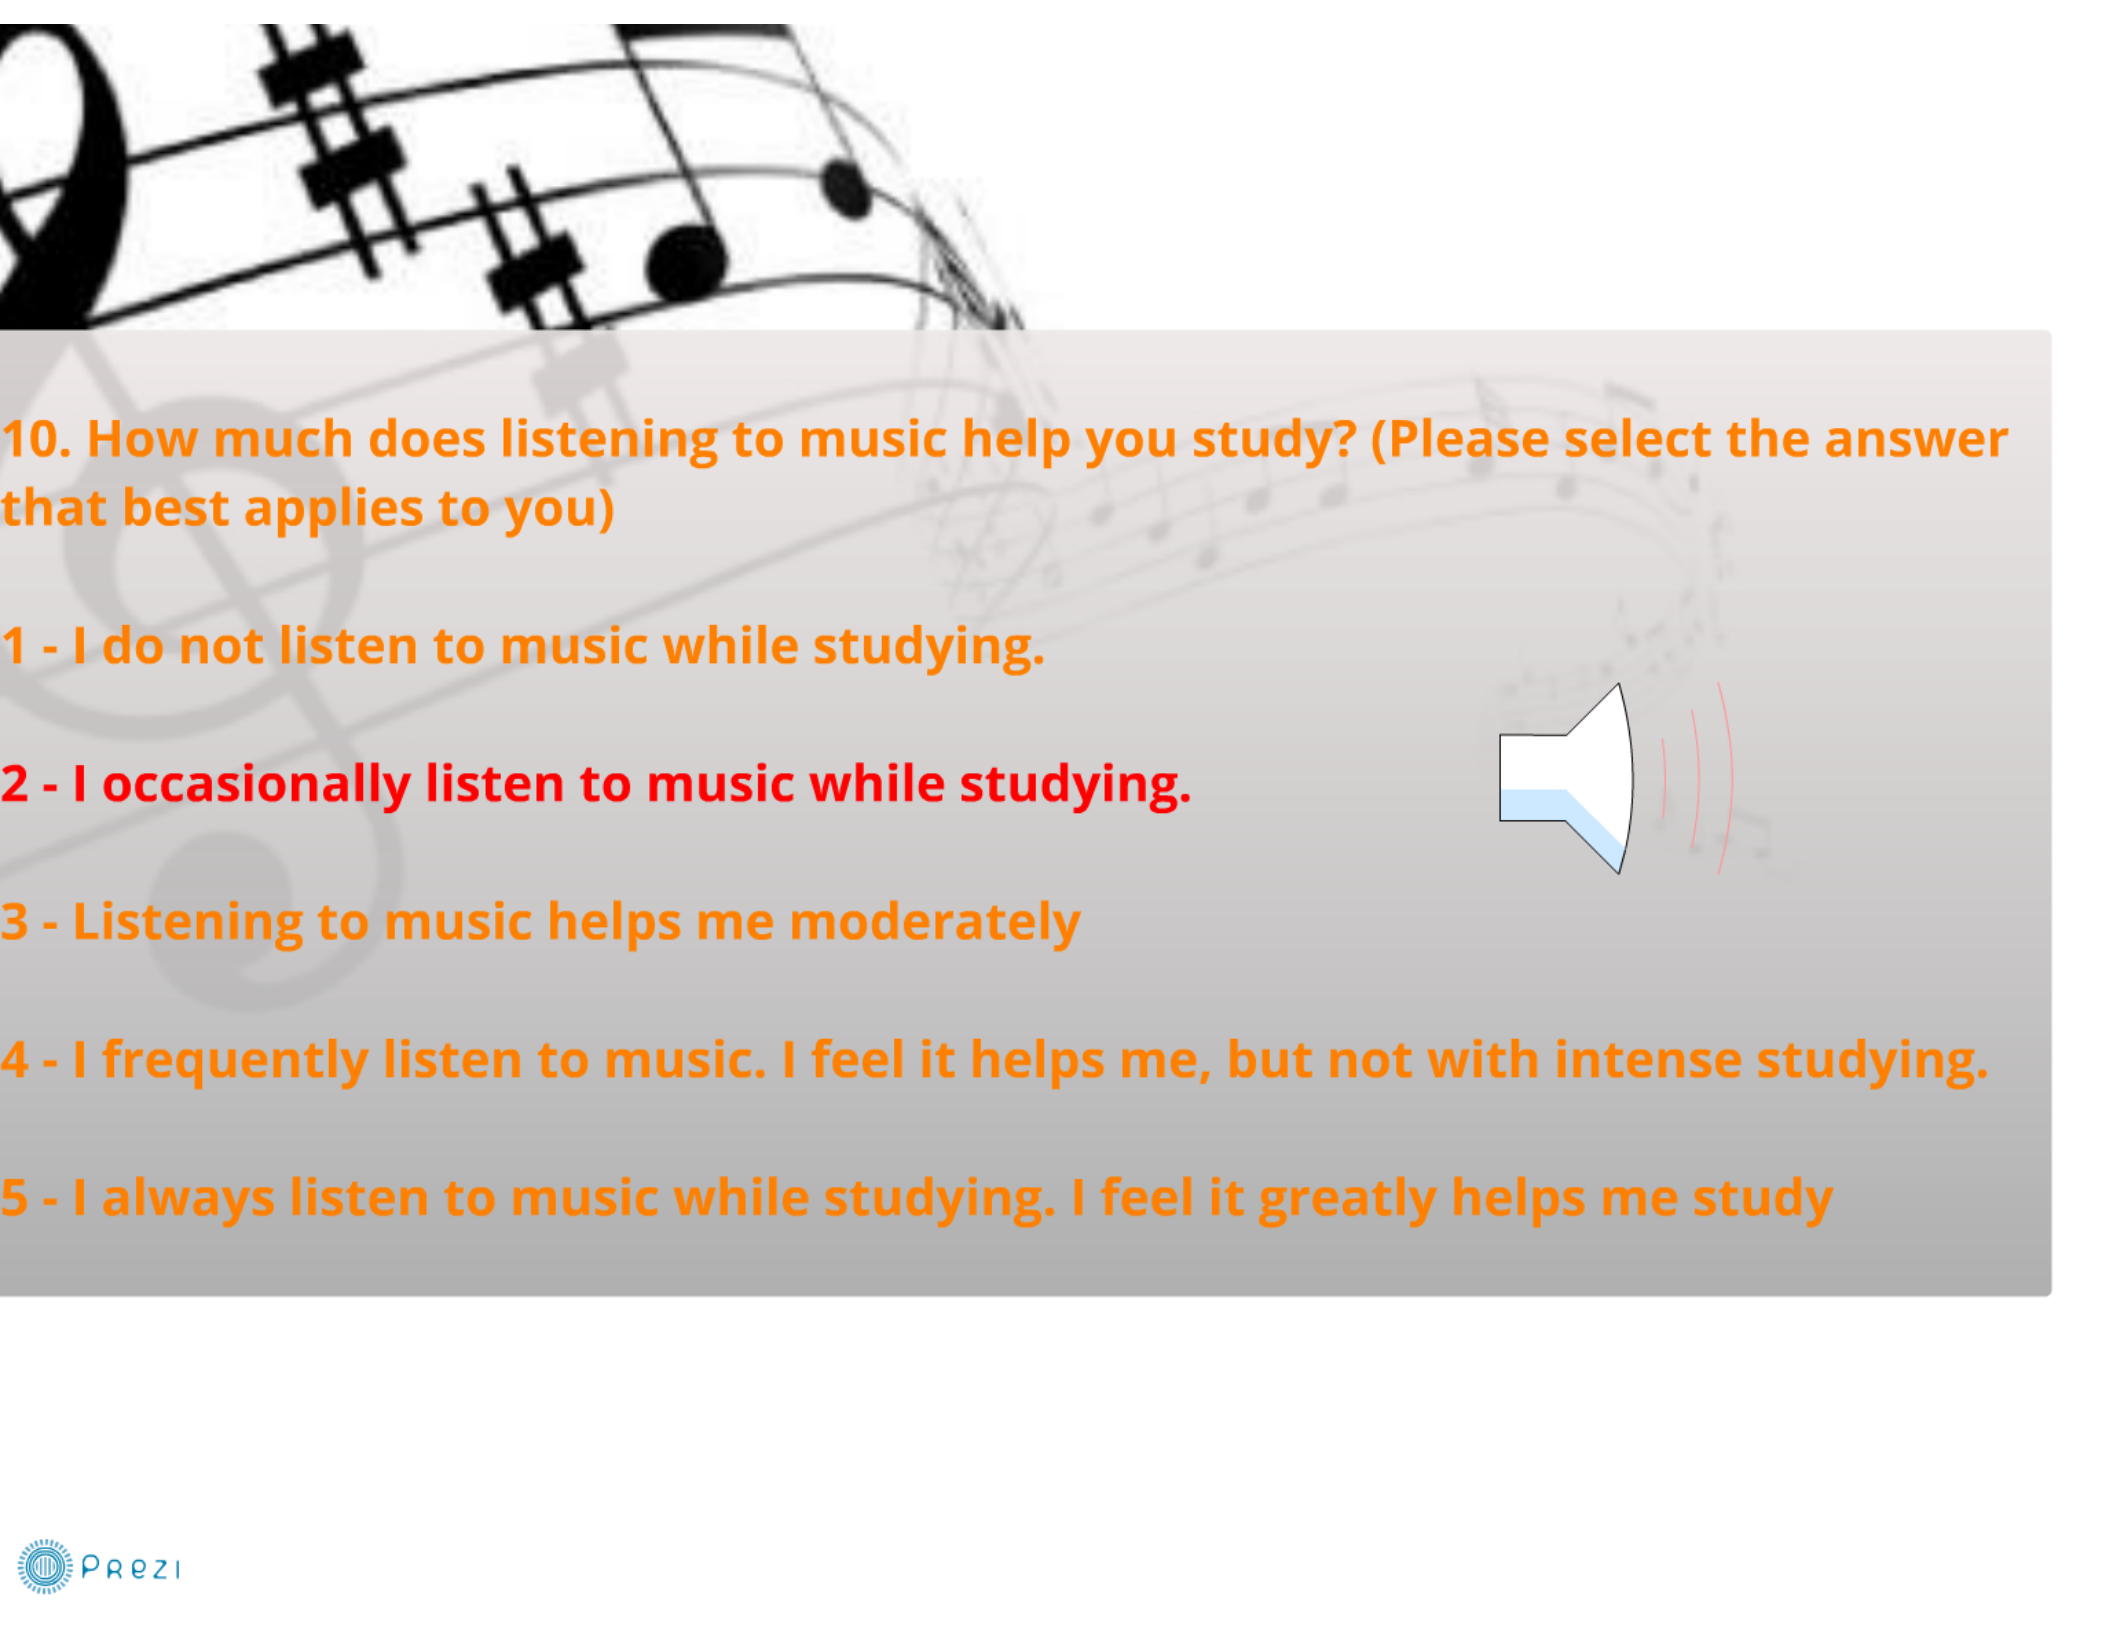

Musical Rhythms in Studying

Does listening to different types of music/rhythms affect how well a student studies?

Does the environment in which we listen to music affect how we receive the music?

ambient rap soul Music prog-rock motown britpop urban freestyle pop grunge noise surf metal garage new wave dance funk punk techno rock rave blues goth disco folk jazz trip-hop glam rock rockabilly disco folk jazz trip-hop glam rock hip-hop country hard rock
grindcore house electro hardcore

The background of the slide features a stylized, black and white musical score with various notes and clefs. The score is partially obscured by a semi-transparent grey rectangular area that contains the main text.

10. How much does listening to music help you study? (Please select the answer that best applies to you)

1 - I do not listen to music while studying.

2 - I occasionally listen to music while studying.

3 - Listening to music helps me moderately

4 - I frequently listen to music. I feel it helps me, but not with intense studying.

5 - I always listen to music while studying. I feel it greatly helps me study

FINDINGS

Conclusion

